Fresh ideas from Chelsea

Decking is back, try a trowel with a twist or a touch of topiary: 14 ideas from the Chelsea Flower Show 2015

12 The use of cutting-edge design and modern building materials. Several of this year's Chelsea show gardens shine out in this regard, including Spanish-born designer Fernando Gonzalez's "Pure Land Foundation Garden" in the Fresh category, a wonderful Gaudiesque space of fiery planting and undulating, white walls. Inspired by the work of the British-Iraqi architect Zaha-Hadid, the latter are moulded out of a versatile, resinous material known as Jesmonite, using state-of-the-art technology borrowed from the aerospace and film industry.
